

OLD KING HIGH PRICED COAL

HOW OUR PINCH WANTS THE LIMELIGHT AND BUCK PASSING.

He is Told To Have Coal Mining a Public Business by Act of Special Legislature.

Governor Pinchot's call to the Governors to come to a meeting was answered by thirteen states, reminding of original number of over a century ago. Only two original governors met the original Pinch, the other come eleven sent representatives.

Our own Gov. Pinch told the Govs that the anthracite using people of America were entitled to three things. The first is coal. The second is honest coal. The third is honest coal at a decent price. The way of getting these three things was by getting the governors together again and again until a commission was formed and Federal legislation secured while Pinch posed in the limelight for Presidential aspiration purposes.

Gov. Silzer called the lime-light bluff by declaring, "How can we expect to get any relief when you won't do anything to keep prices down here in Pennsylvania? You can pile on tax after tax, and when you haven't anything else left to tax, you can pile on more tax."

Rather than let the governor of New Jersey carry off any glory, Pinchot saw to it that his resolutions were tabled, even though Silzer branded the conference as a buck-passing proposition.

No. 1. That Pennsylvania repeal the law upon its statute books taxing coal and placing a burden of about $1 a ton upon the consumer.

No. 2. That Pennsylvania repeal the law upon its statute books which limits the production of coal.

No. 3. That Pennsylvania pass laws fixing a standard of quality and size of all coal produced and shipped out of the State.

No. 4. That Pennsylvania pass a law appointing a commission to regulate the coal industry and declaring the anthracite coal industry a public business, having for its purpose the protection of the interests of the consumers and the elimination of unfair methods and practices.

Gov. Preus, of Minnesota, the other original present, insisted strongly on No. 4, and if Pinchot had the courage of some real lime-light he would knock over the coal barons and get nearer his aspiration than by passing the buck from State to Federal legislation.

Gov. Preus in an outline of a plan for reducing anthracite coal prices, called upon Gov. Pinchot to call a special session of the Pennsylvania Legislature for the purpose of having the anthracite industry declared a public business.

The State Legislature, he declared, can regulate the production of coal, its preparation for use and can fix the price. Federal legislation, he said, regulating the distribution and transportation of coal. He expressed doubt that Congress can under the situation anywhere near the extent that the State of Pennsylvania can.

"Some years ago the grain elevator business was declared a public business by legislative acts in Illinois, New York and North Dakota," he said. "In each case the statute was attacked as to its constitutionality by the elevator companies, but in the three respective cases the law was sustained. I believe the anthracite industry should be declared a public business in like manner, and would, therefore, respectfully ask that you call a special session of your Legislature to bring this about."

Dr. Hanson Guest of Honor.

The Chamber of Commerce entertained Dr. H. W. A. Hanson, President of Gettysburg College on Tuesday evening at a smoker and luncheon at the Fire Engine House. About fifty of the business men were present and Dr. Hanson gave them a most delightful talk. Among other things saying:

"Gettysburg is to be congratulated upon the remark of Lloyd George as he was going on board ship on his way home was asked what incident impressed him most for cordiality and hospitality and he quickly answered that the spontaneity and genuineness of the informal greeting at Gettysburg left the deepest impression on his mind and would be long cherished. That incident spoke volumes for this community."

Dr. Hanson traced the story of business through the age of competition, then of combination and declared that the business vision of today was cooperation and along with cooperation went the square deal and good fellowship.

The world today comes to the door of every business man, whether he is running a store or a college and asks for the best service to be given, backed by courtesy and good will. There must be cooperation and good will. In the business of running a college the speaker declared he was going to stand by the community and expected the community to stand by the college, and illustrating the point attention was called to the fact that there were 75 scholarships in the college and twenty-five of them were enjoyed by Gettysburg boys.

SHOCKING AUTO ACCIDENT STRICKEN BY HEART DISEASE

LITTLE GIRL MEETS TRAGIC DEATH IN ACCIDENTAL WAY.

Need of School Zone Signs For Protection of Children on Baltimore and East and West High Streets.

A shocking automobile accident took place on Wednesday morning, resulting in the death of a little girl, Gladys Martin, the six-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Martin, of West High street. The little girl, with a playmate, Phyllis Holbert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Holbert, left the High Street school house shortly after eleven o'clock in the morning for their homes on West High street. Reaching Baltimore street, with their arms about each other, the little girls started to cross the street.

At the time at automobile driven by W. J. Tetherick, of Rochester, New York, en route to Lake Worth, Florida, was moving up Baltimore street and approached the High street corner slowly and observing the children, blew his horn, and to avoid hitting them, turned into High street. When the children realized the horn was blown for them they fled in panic right in front of the car turning to avoid them, and were struck and knocked down. The car came to a standstill a few feet beyond the little girls. Eye witnesses thought the car was not going over six miles an hour when the children were struck.

The little girls were instantly picked up, one by Rev. Father Mark E. Stock, and the other by Dr. J. P. Dalbey, and placed in Dr. Dalbey's car and accompanied by Mr. Tetherick, rushed to the Annie M. Warner Hospital. Gladys Martin was run over by the rear wheel of the car, and was badly crushed and died during the afternoon. Phyllis Holbert received a slight concussion of the brain but was able to be taken to her home on Thanksgiving Day, and her complete recovery is looked for.

There were five witnesses to the accident: Rev. Father Mark E. Stock, Dr. J. P. Dalbey, Lewis Snyder, John Williams and Allen Brown and all declared it to be accidental, and the State Police, after getting the statements of all eye witnesses, allowed Mr. Tetherick, who was accompanied by his wife and daughter, to proceed on their way. They were shocked and distressed over the accident.

Rev. Earl J. Bowman will hold the funeral services of Gladys Martin on Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, with interment in the Evergreen Cemetery.

This shocking death and the numerous narrow escapes taking place near the junction of Baltimore and High streets suggests that North and South of High street on both sides of the street there should be prominent signs, "Danger—School Zone", and similar signs could be put up on both East and West High streets as protection to the school children.

The Red Cross Roll Call.

The Red Cross Roll Call for members at the dawn of Thanksgiving Day was ahead of returns for the year preceding, $700 having been reported, representing about 600 memberships and there were no returns from a number of communities actively at work and the work had not been completed at any point. Returns have been received from Gettysburg, Biglerville, Menallen Meeting House, Bonneauville, New Oxford, Cashtown, Guernsey, Barlow and Buchanan Valley.

The Junior Red Cross has been busy, over one hundred schools having taken up the movement and the returns from this source have not been completed. Many of the schools took up the work during Institute Week and complete returns from the schools will likely be delayed. Much of the work of the Red Cross Home Service has been given for the benefit of needy children of the county, and the schools have taken up this work with enthusiasm.

Before Roll Call is closed, if you want your Own Home County to be ready for any emergency of Mercy and Relief, if you want the work continued for the needy and helpless children, if you want to give the helping hand to the sufferers of gas and wounds of our soldier boys, if you want the families of those boys looked after, if you want to belong to the greatest charity organization in the world rushing always where disaster reigns, if you want all this and more the way is easy. It costs but one dollar a year. There is yet time to send that dollar to Miss Margaret McMillan, the Secretary of the Home Service, half of your dollar for national purposes and half for home purposes.

Put Christmas Stamps On Back.

According to recent orders issued by the Post Office Department, Christmas stamps, or other adhesive stamps or labels in aid of charitable objects may be affixed only to the back of all mail articles destined to foreign countries, and not to the face or address side of the wrapper.

It is stated that unless this condition is complied with, articles bearing non-postage stamps will not be dispatched from this country; they will be returned to the senders, if known, or sent to the division of dead letters if not known.

WHILE DRIVING A TEAM WITH A LOAD OF APPLES.

Mrs. Feiser, Widow of Dr. Feiser, Died Within 15 Days of the Death of Her Husband.

John W. Ziegler, prominent farmer of Latimore township, fell backward from his seat on the wagon and died instantly last Saturday. Persons who saw him fall, ran to the assistance of the stricken man, but death had occurred instantly. In apparently good health, Mr. Ziegler left his home in Latimore township between 9 and 10 o'clock Saturday morning with a load of apples for the William Grove Canning Company at York Springs. Having unloaded the apples at the canning factory, Mr. Ziegler started toward home. When the team had gone about fifty yards from the canning factory, eyewitnesses saw Mr. Ziegler fall backward off his seat on the wagon, still holding the reins. The animals shied from the roadway and started onto the pavement, while passersby shouted at them to stop. A tree in the path of the wagon brought the vehicle to a stop. Persons who reached Mr. Ziegler first found him lying on his back. He was stricken about 11 o'clock. Mr. Ziegler was aged 71 years and 18 days, and is survived by his wife and two daughters, Mrs. Irvine R. Spangler, of Aspers, and Mrs. George Heiges, of York Springs. She succumbed to chronic gastritis, from which she has been a sufferer for some time. It is thought the shock of her husband's death hastened the demise of Mrs. Feiser. She is survived by three sisters, Mrs. Emma Julius, Mrs. Solomon Aughenbaugh, of Dover, and Mrs. Peter Burgard, where her death occurred. Funeral was held Tuesday afternoon; burial was made in Salem Cemetery, near Dover. Revs. I. S. Ditzler and Paul Gladfelter officiated.

He is survived by one son, William Rensel, and one daughter, Mrs. Norman Bennett, with whom he made his home. Warren, well-known resident of Butler township and formerly of Gettysburg, died last Thursday afternoon at his home near Biglerville of paralysis caused by a cerebral hemorrhage which he suffered earlier in the day. Prior to that he was apparently in the best of health. He was aged 69 years, 8 months and 2 days. Dr. Warren was born in Lancaster, a son of the late Dr. James and Eliza Warren. For some time he practiced medicine in Lancaster, but, when he moved to Adams county about 30 years ago, he discontinued his profession. He is survived by his wife and one brother, Dr. E. P. Warren, of Goldsboro. Funeral was on last Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock from Friends' Grove church, Butler township, with services by Rev. Grant Group, of East Berlin. Samuel W. Hill, of Baltimore, assistant auditor of disbursements of the B. & O. railroad, his wife and two other women escaped injury in the third accident in four weeks at the one-way Swift Run bridge on the Lincoln Highway, seven miles east of Gettysburg on Thursday afternoon. Hill and his party were en route to Chambersburg. Approaching the one-way bridge from the east, Hill, the driver, noticed another car descending the steep hill just west of the bridge. As the cars drew near to each other, Hill suddenly saw that both cars could not pass on the narrow roadway over the bridge. Hill's machine skidded, turned around, struck the concrete wingwall of the bridge and turned over on its side along the road. The occupants crawled out unhurt. A rear wheel of the machine was smashed.

Congress And Forecast.

The first session of the new Congress begins next Monday, December 3rd. U. S. Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, forecasts the future as follows:

"The present political prospect is encouraging to the Democrats. Our chances for success in the approaching campaign are good. They are constantly improving."

"In 1920 the Republican party secured an overwhelming majority. This was due in large part to the unrest, dissatisfaction and discontent incident to post-war problems and conditions. The Democrats in the last campaign labored under great disadvantage. Their opponents, for the purpose of obtaining political advantage, deliberately stimulated resentment toward President Wilson and his Administration."

"They went too far and aroused ill feeling toward the Government itself. They skillfully sowed broadcast the seeds of suspicion and mistrust, and are now reaping a harvest of discontent and hatred. They denounced President Wilson and the Democratic party for the passage of law legislation which received practically unanimous support in Congress from both Democrats and Republicans. They charged Democrats with sole responsibility for extravagant expenditures and consequent high taxes."

"The fruits of their victory proved bitter. Republican leaders were unable substantially to reduce taxes. A comparison of the reductions made by them in Government expenses with those accomplished with the Democrats during the closing years of Mr. Wilson's administration impeached the sincerity of their pledges to economize."

"The problems to come before the approaching session of Congress are both important and difficult. They include measures relating to better provision for disabled veterans, the reduction of both internal revenues and tariff duties on certain necessities of life. Consideration of transportation conditions, especially relating to freight rate as the same effect the market for staple agricultural products, the Pulman struggle, and the disposition of Muscle Shoals."

"Of course, our foreign relations will require consideration and provoke discussion. The situation will be clarified somewhat when the President sends his message to the Congress."

"A Republican leader in the U. S. Senate, and acknowledged to be one of the most astute leaders of his party, was asked for his views and replied without hesitation:

"We will just stand around here and throw rotten eggs at one another for six months, then we will go to our national convention."

THOMAS JEFFERSON MEMORIAL

Interest All Over the Country in Saving Monticello For Nation.

The Thomas Jefferson Memorial Foundation to establish Jefferson's home, Monticello, as a national shrine has been receiving enthusiastic support throughout the country. United States Senator Royal S. Copeland of New York says: "One of the most gratifying features of the movement in this and other states and one of the most encouraging results had been the keen interest of the school children in Jefferson's career and their eagerness in helping to establish a fitting memorial to him."

"It certainly has surprised most of us who have been closely identified with the movement to acquire Monticello for the nation," said Senator Copeland, "to find that the school children are so well informed about Jefferson. Their interest in and knowledge of the author of the Declaration of Independence might well serve as an example to their elders."

"Of course, I am especially pleased that the first contribution from the children of a school to the fund of $1,000,000 which is needed came from a school in New York state."

"Everywhere we are finding the same interest on the part of schools; and children of foreign birth appear as eager as those born in the United States to do their individual mite in honoring the spokesman of human liberty not only for this country but for the whole world."

"When the Jefferson Memorial Transcontinental Tour, of which Governor Trinkle is chairman, was in Los Angeles, the pupils of the Jefferson High School initiated a movement of their own to raise a fund to be contributed to the Monticello Fund. There are 2,500 pupils in the school and they have suggested dedicating their year book, the Monticello, for 1924, to Thomas Jefferson."

"Thomas Jefferson was the first advocate of our common school system and it is only fitting that the children of our schools should participate in erecting a worthy memorial to him: In Arizona Governor George W. P. Hunt and others interested in the movement are planning in the movement to raise the states' quota to the Fund—$8,000—special tribute to Jefferson's achievement for general education of the people."

"In New Orleans the children of the Jefferson School Civic League presented a contribution of $100 for the Fund to the members of the Transcontinental Tour party. The presentation was made, very appropriately, on the very spot where the American flag was first raised in the territory acquired for this country by Jefferson through the Louisiana Purchase."

Senator Copeland expressed pleased surprise at the knowledge and appreciation of Jefferson's many-sidedness displayed by many varying elements of the population, as evidenced in the progress of the Jefferson Transcontinental Tour. Not only did the school children seem to know that Jefferson was the father of our school system, he said, but the farmers realized that Jefferson, himself a keenly interested and successful farmer, had been far ahead of his time in introducing new methods and devising improved implements for agriculture."

He was the first American to rotate crops, and the first man to plant rice in America. He made improvements in the mould board plow, from which was evolved the shear plow. He was the first man in America to use the chicken incubator and was the first farmer in this country to use the threshing machine."

About Our Neighbor.

Maryland is the only state in the Union in which not a single school official is elected by the vote of the people; the only state in the Union in which the Governor appoints the members of the County Boards of Education. Of the forty-eight states, no other state, in selecting its school officials, has deemed it advisable to deprive its citizens of all participation and all local control, as it does in Maryland, yet these appointed Boards, in no way answerable to the people, have sole power to dictate taxes for school purposes to the County Commissioners, and these County Commissioners must levy and collect the taxes assessed.

AT 3:30 P.M. THANKSGIVING DAY

State Highway Patrol.

Secretary of Highways Paul D. Wright has announced that Pennsylvania highway patrolmen will go on duty before end of the year. Members of the patrol force, which was organized and drilled during the summer months by state police officials at Mount Gretna, have been assigned to various state police barracks, and will be assigned to their patrolling districts this week.

Motorists who desire to avoid arrest are warned by the highway secretary to obey the law and regulations governing driving in Pennsylvania. Motorists are instructed to pay particular attention to the following warnings issued by the department:

RECKLESS DRIVING—This is defined as driving and operating a car so as to create a hazard to life, limb or property. This covers a wide range—from the operation of a car with defective brakes or glaring headlights to cutting across traffic without a warning to cars in the rear, and includes any act or omission calculated to jeopardize the lives or property of others.

SPEED—So-called speed maniacs will be picked up, and those persons who travel at unreasonable rates on curves or toward the crests of hills.

HEADLAMPS—Cars on which the headlights are out of focus will be stopped and may not proceed until the bulbs are properly focused. Members of the patrol have received instructions as to focusing of bulbs and will aid drivers in making adjustments. "One-eyed cars" will not be permitted to operate. The patrol cannot prevent bulbs from burning out. Motorists carrying spare tires will hereafter be required to carry extra bulbs.

OBSCURE PLATES—Cars will not be permitted to operate on which the license plates are obscured by bumpers or tire carriers. Plates must be free from dirt. No driver will be permitted to operate who purposely bends the tag so that only four or five numerals can be read.

BRAKES—From time to time the motor patrol will stop automobiles and require a demonstration of brake conditions. If the brakes are not in proper adjustment, the driver will be sent to the nearest garage to have them put in condition.

WEIGHTS—The motor patrol will be watchful of those who overload trucks, and will prosecute drivers found to be carrying 250 pounds in excess of the weight allowed for the various classes.

PARKING—No parking will be permitted on any state highway so as to interfere with ordinary passage of two-way traffic.

HORSE-DRAWN VEHICLES—The state law, which requires that at night horse-drawn vehicles display a light, will be enforced.

MIRRORS—The motor patrol will require that the law be obeyed which compels either a clear vision to the rear or a mirror.

SPOTLIGHTS—No spotlight may be used, the rays from which fall to the left of the center of the radiator.

TRAFFIC LINES—At curves or on hills where the highway department has painted white lines, the motor patrol will insist that drivers stay on their side of the white lines.

PEDESTRIANS—The motor patrol will suggest to pedestrians the advisability always of walking toward traffic rather than with traffic.

When a motorist is stopped by a patrolman, his driver's card will be so punched that thereafter it will be a record against him, and this record also will show on the cards filed at Harrisburg.

Caught By Machinery.

James Starnier, of Starniers, had a narrow escape from death Tuesday at the Peach Glen canning factory while oiling the pomace dryer. His sleeve caught in the machinery which drew him tighter every turn. There was no one about at the time. He called to the boiler man, Lawrence Weidner, who shut off everything at once and went to free Mr. Starnier. His efforts were in vain and he blew the whistle. The other employees then helped Mr. Starnier out. He had one arm and shoulder badly bruised.

Auto Titles Swamp Department.

No arrests will be made for some time of automobile drivers who have no cards showing title to their cars, the Highway Department announced on Nov. 24.

The new State law, effective November 24, provides that all motor vehicles must be titled and that owners whose cars are driven without cards of title are subject to fines ranging from $50 to $1000.

The registrar of motor vehicles, said the department would make no arrest until the Highway Department had caught up with its work in sending out the cards.

Up to Nov. 24 251,000 cars had been titled and the cards mailed. There are 985,000 passenger cars in the State. When the department catches up with its work, notice will be given of the date for enforcement to begin.

In the last week alone 300,000 applications were received for registration of titles. Twenty mail sacks of applications were delivered to the division almost daily, and the vast amount of work in making out the records and title cards necessitated the installation of graphotype machines. These machines are used in the cutting of zinc stencils which form the complete record of every car, the title of which is registered. The plates are filed by registration number and when a registered car is sold the original plate is removed from the file and blanked. The new owner receives the same number, preceded by a letter. If the original owner's registration number was 99-999, for example, the second owner's number would be A-99,999.

The machines are operated in three shifts a day and the adding machines and the mailing rooms are being operated in two shifts. There are 700 employees of the division at present and all are working overtime.

So far the division has mailed 75,000 1921 passenger markers and 2500 tags for commercial vehicles.

Although the 1923 drivers' license will be honored by the State until March 1, 1924, the 1923 license markers expire with the present year and no car may be driven in 1924 with a 1923 set of tags.

What Eastern Cement Mills Earn Shown By U. S. Income Tax Returns

For the first time an impartial analysis of the profits of the cement industry in the East has just been completed, covering earnings and operations for last year. It is based on the U. S. Income Tax returns of 11 of the principal Eastern cement companies. This has been made public in the form of a letter to Hon. George F. Silver, Governor of New Jersey, from which this extract is taken.

By H. PARKER WILLIS
Professor of Banking, Columbia University.

IN order to determine from an unprejudiced standpoint the operating results of the year 1922 as reflected in the position of the principal cement mills in the Eastern district of the United States, some leading producers of Portland cement in that district recently offered to place their operating returns at my disposal with the request that I should analyze the same and determine the facts shown for that year.

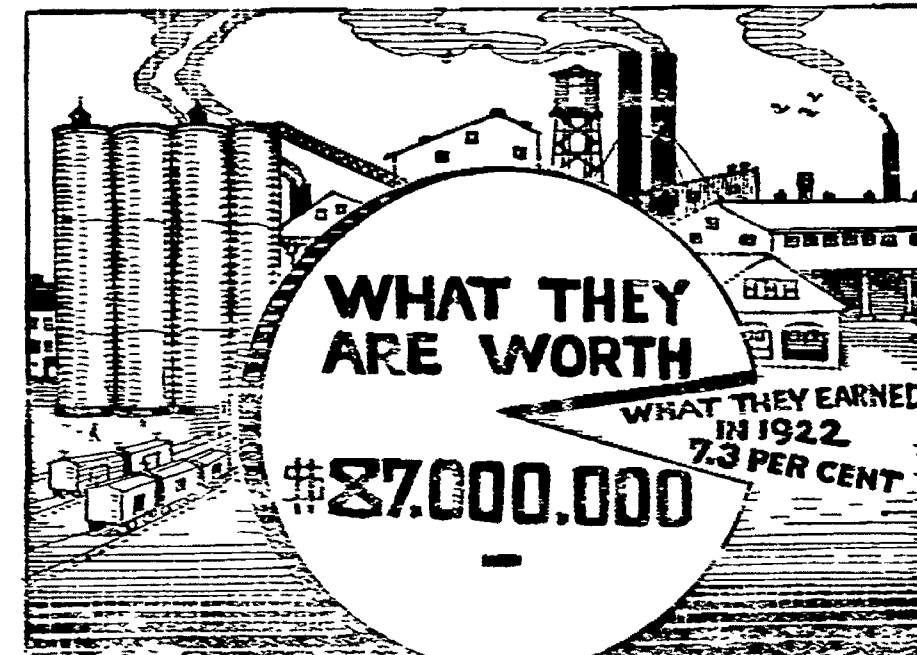

The returns I am presenting, have, in every case been based upon the income tax statements furnished by the concerns to the United States Treasury. They are, therefore, substantially uniform in their basis of computation besides being free of doubts as to accuracy which might exist were they merely the results of local bookkeeping not checked up or adjusted to any general standard.

The industrial results of the year 1922 on the part of these mills have been the production of the largest volume of cement in their history.

For the eleven companies under consideration, this output was 28,774,191 barrels, or over 25 per cent of the entire product of the country as a whole. Gross sales of the eleven companies comprising both new and old product, were worth $49,592,872.

The relationship between the output thus indicated and the capital invested will be inferred from the statement that the aggregate net worth of the invested property of the concerns as reported was $87,003,767.

On this actual investment, the eleven

Relationship between investment and earnings of 11 Eastern Portland cement companies, representing 75 per cent of the cement produced in the East mills have earned a total net income after expenses and taxes amounting to $4,368,441, or an average return of about 7.3 per cent on the capital invested.

It is worth noting that great variations in the percentage of net earnings to net worth are found, some companies reporting only a fraction of 1 per cent as their net return, while others run higher in varying degrees. Several were operated at a net loss. It is also interesting to observe that the largest percentage of return is by no means obtained by the largest companies.

Total cash dividends declared during the year 1922 were $2,278,634, or an average percentage of slightly over 3.5 per cent on a total capitalization of $64,664,061 (reckoning both common and preferred stock as the basis of computation). Four companies declared no dividends whatever. Two stock dividends were declared, amounting together to $2,823,900, or slightly less than 4.6 per cent on the combined capitalization just mentioned.

In view of the fact that, during the discussions of industrial earnings in recent years, much has been made of statements that earnings returns were frequently vitiated by the existence of very large allowances for depreciation, it is especially worth comment that total allowances for depreciation and depletion of every kind aggregated, during the year 1922, for this group of companies, a total sum of $2,984,014, or the equivalent of about 3.4 per cent of the entire net worth of the group as already stated.

It would appear that whether viewed as a return upon business turnover or upon the value of the output; or whether viewed as a return upon actual investment, the earnings of representative cement producers during the year 1922 have been well below the average obtained by industrial undertakings at large.

From this point of view, too, it is noteworthy that the eleven companies under study materially reduced their prices during 1922, receiving on the average $1.15257 less per barrel than in 1921. This figure represents the difference between an average 1921 price of $1.75453 and a price for 1922 of $1.60196 as reported.

tain block, but there were no surface clues. Finally it was found by the geophone to be in a half-inch service pipe buried two and a half feet in the ground, with a leaking stream smaller than a lead pencil under eight inches of brick and concrete base pavement.

The sound of the leak was heard fifty feet away and, incidentally, how much farther away it might have been heard was not determined.

The leaks were located exactly and the engineers were pleased because they did not find it necessary to cut up the pavement. Almost the whole cost of the geophone was saved on that operation, the engineers said.

Christmas Savings Funds.

The Gettysburg banks are going to distribute the largest amount ever of the Christmas Club funds, nearly $100,000, among some hundreds of our people. The total saving of the county in the Christmas Saving Clubs will reach over 211 millions and according to figures obtained 48 per cent of this money Santa Claus gets. It is said 11 per cent has been going back to Uncle Sam as income tax. The fact that 11 per cent of the total savings registered in the Christmas Club accounts is paid out in taxes is said to indicate that persons with moderate incomes feel the pinch of taxation to such a degree they have to build up a sort of tax reserve in advance.

A substantial part of the savings over the year are redeposited in permanent savings account, said to be 28 per cent, insurance premiums 7 per cent, interest 4 per cent, and 2 per cent to fixed charges maturing in December.

The Christmas Club Corporation was originated by a Mr. Rawll in 1910. At that time it met with opposition from bankers who believed the theory of saving money to spend it over Christmas was unsound. Mr. Rawll's argument was that the inculcation of thrift, even with Christmas spending in view, would develop a habit that would stick with the depositor. As proof of his contention that he was right, he reports that in the last ten years more than 2,000,000 new permanent savings accounts directly traceable to the club idea, have been opened. The number of members, now 5,468,000, will exceed the 6,000,000 mark in 1924, according to Mr. Rawll.

"The outstanding achievement of the club has been that of overcoming the feeling of fear that thousands entering a bank," said Mr. Rawll. "It can best be explained by the feeling that some of us have when we may not do the right thing at the right time, and so it is with thousands concerning a bank—they have been in the habit of looking upon a banking institution as a rich man's club, and entertained the idea they would be unwelcome unless they had a large deposit to make."

"The Christmas Club has done more to break down that feeling than any other banking plan. To-day it is a recognized department of thousands of banking institutions, and they would no more think of doing without their Christmas Club department than they would abandon their discount department."

Corn Expert Warns of Danger To Seed Corn.

We are again in the midst of harvesting our greatest agricultural crop, corn. Indications point to a three billion bushel yield to which Pennsylvania will contribute some sixty-four million bushels.

Owing to early frosts much of the corn throughout the middle west and the greater part of Pennsylvania is immature; or, where ripe, it is found to have ripened unevenly, containing kernels in various stages of maturity on the same ears, and also is found to be carrying an excess of moisture.

Should the temperature fall to eighteen or twenty degrees much of this corn will be killed or the vitality lowered to a point where it will be unfit for planting. This condition holds mainly in the northern two-thirds of the state.

The writer has spent two days inspecting seed conditions in Lancaster county and finds the corn well matured but containing much moisture. This also holds true for the Adams, Chester, York and Delaware districts.

Farmers are cautioned to select their seed corn as soon as possible and hang in a dry place to get rid of excess moisture before severe freezing sets in. Corn well dried will stand any amount of cold.

The stage is all set for a repetition of the 1917 seed corn trouble, but the farmer who takes care of his seed corn now need have no fear of good viable seed at planting time.

The first act in growing the 1924 corn crop is at hand now. Select, dry and store the seed now, so that it may be bright and of strong vitality at planting time.

HELP WANTED IN GETTYSBURG

And Furnished by the Help of Gettysburg People.

Those who suffer with kidney backache, urinary ills or any little kidney or bladder disorder, want kidney help. Who can better advise than some Gettysburg resident, who has also suffered, but has had relief. Gettysburg people recommend Doan's Kidney Pills. Here's one case and there are many others.

Charles Rosensteel, prop. blacksmith shop, 315 S. Washington St., Gettysburg, says: "I am a blacksmith and I believe the heavy work I did was the cause of my kidney trouble. My kidneys were sore and there were times when they felt like lumps of lead pressing against me. Darting pains bothered me when I bent over to place a shoe. My back was often stiff and lame, but the main trouble was with my kidneys. The kidney secretions seemed to be filled with a heavy, sandy-like substance and were too scanty in passage. I heard of Doan's Kidney Pills and got a couple of boxes. By the time I had used them, my back was all right. The kidney secretions were cleared up and the soreness left my kidneys. I was fixed up in a first-class way. 60c. at all dealers. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y."

What Steel Tariff Costs Farmers.

American farmers who have been told by Republican Congressmen and Republican journals that agricultural implements are on the free list will be surprised to learn from a protectionist organization that the present tariff is costing them $100,000,000 a year too much because of the heavy duties on steel. The same organization is authority for the statement that the manufacturers of these implements are paying $50,000,000 annually more than they ought to pay.

In a statement issued a few days ago by the Fair Tariff League is given the explanation of this relation of the duty on steel to the larger cost of agricultural implements. The League's statement says:

"To-day's prices of American-made bar steel, which is a criterion of all steel prices is $2.40. The export price of English bars is $1.61; the Belgian price, in dollars, is 3 per cent less. France is between England and Belgium, while in Germany... the dollar price is 50 per cent above England's.

War Developed Device for Water Co.

Water companies, utilizing an idea from the World War, have devised an instrument for discovering what is going on underground.

The instrument is called a geophone and it is a development of a somewhat similar apparatus used to detect enemy mining and sapping.

Two disks, each an inch thick and phone and it is a development of a somewhat similar apparatus used to detect enemy mining and sapping.

Two disks, each an inch thick and four inches across, and lengths of tubing ending in ear-pieces make up the apparatus, which resembles a stethoscope.

When the water engineers suspect there is a leak in a certain locality the disks are placed on the road surface and an ear-piece in each ear. The disks are then moved as far apart as the length of the tubing permits.

The hearer discovers that the noise in one ear is louder than the other. He then shifts the less loud disk backward and forward until the sounds from both disks are equal. He assumes then that the sound is in the plane perpendicular to the straight line joining the disks.

He marks the observation spot and proceeds along the direction of the plane forward or back, whichever way intensifies the noise.

Only a few minutes, and not over fifteen or twenty minutes, are required to locate an ordinary leak when the hearer is within fifty or seventy-five feet of it.

As an example of the way the instrument works, the following may be cited.

In a certain city the water company was puzzled by a leak that was difficult to discover. It was in a cer-
